ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The 'notes and references' attached to each chapter and the 'Bibliographical note' at the end will show my indebtedness to many writers of high repute. I acknowledge a great debt of my cordial gratitude to my guide, Dr. Pabitrakumar Roy, who has taken his precious time to make invaluable suggestions relating to my work. Prof. Roy has instructed me with his profound knowledge on the subject and other literary works in the realm of my research work and comforted me with his modesty, warmth of heart and sincerity. I also express my heart-felt thanks to the revered colleagues of mine of the departments of Philosophy, Political Science and Economics, A.B.N. Seal College, Cooch Behar.

I am most indebted to Prof. Kalikaprasad Roy, Prof. Chandrasekhar Deb Nath and Prof. Naba Kumar Nandy who helped me to develop my critical outlook in the formative years of life when I was a student of Victoria College, Cooch Behar. They left an indelible impression on my mind. I also wish to express my love and gratitude to my friends and many others who have been helpful in connection with my discussion on Marx and some recent trends in ethical studies.

I would like to thank my dear and beloved wife, Minati Debi (Nath), for her untiring help, patience and sympathetic understanding. Her self-sacrificing zeal, her passionate love for me is a perennial source of my everything. No language can describe it and I owe most to her. I also acknowledge the services rendered to me by my eldest son, Binayak Nath and my two daughters, Tanmaya Nath and Moumita Nath, who have been helpful to me in a variety of more specific ways.

Finally, I would like to thank my learned Colleagues of the Department of Philosophy, University of North Bengal for their genuine sympathy and encouragement in my humble endeavour to complete the present work.
